WOULDN'T WORK.

The Dose a Faction Tried to Administer to the Republicans Last Evening not Swallowed.

The Democratic Primaries Held in the Several Wards and Good Men Selected as Aldermen.

"Just before the battle, mother," is a song that was warbled by the faithful, as they wandered in the direction of the city hall last evening, where, according to announcement, brothers were to meet each other and as they clasped each other's hands would sing "Crowns of Victory." The occasion for the gathering was "influence," but from what quarter it came the most ardent, even, were unable to tell. They only knew that according to some occult direction they were all of one accord assembled in one place. The word had gone out they should be there, and there they were. Exactly how the destination was reached very few could tell, but when a delegation arrived and were hurrying in the direction of the council chamber or the police magistrate's court room they were stopped by the outside sentinel, told to duck their heads, go through the fire sta-tion to the rear until they reached a stair-way on the left, then follow their leaders up the narrow stairway until they came to a brilliantly lighted chamber where the grand Ahkeond of Swat sat on a raised grand Ansoond of Swat sai. On a lased dais, and after proper obeisance was made they would be escorted to their seats, lowly though they were, compared with the throne upon which sat the potentate with a chew of tobacco in his mouth and a gavel

The directed, having observed the direct The directed, having observed the directions of the directors, were soon ensconced neatly within the bower which had been shaded for them by the curtains having been drawn down, and the gas turned low been drawn down, and the gas turned low to save expenses, as it is well known Mr. Hershfield is not settling campaign bills at present. A chairman, secretary and in-side sentinel were selected, after which the chairman announced that the object of the meeting had been fully announced in the call. The chairman of the city central committee, recognizing the fact that har-mony did not exist to an alarming extent in the republican ranks, and that it was arblican ranks, and that it was ardently hoped that if the delegates to the re-publican convention which meets to-night would get together and consult and so arrange things that there would be no controversy; that the man selected by the cancus would be chosen, who would lead the republican hosts to victory an agreement could be reached.

The chairman then asked if the doors had been securely locked, and having been had been securely locked, and having been informed that they were double barred, asked the secretary to count the convention and was informed by that functionary that there were exactly fifty present.

"That is a quorum. What is your further business?" he shouted.

A dozen gentlemen arose and tried to attract the speaker's attention, who rapped furiously with his gavel to maintain order, and the third warder, seeing he had no chance to air his eloquence, sat down. A gentleman from the fifth ward said there were only two prominent candidates, Theo. H. Kleinschmidt and T. P. Fuiler, and he moved that a vote be taken, the one receiving the highest number of votes to be declared the choice of the caucus. Car-

Loud cries of "Who is Cory "" "Who is

A mild mannered gentleman from the second ward arose and announced that Mr. Cory was David A. Cory, of the firm of Bach, Cory & Co., and Mr. Thornburgh was A. M. Thornburgh the real estate dealer and insurance agent.

The chairman here interposed his gavel, which had the effect of shutting off debate until a delegate who had sat silent arose and inquired who Kleinschmidt was.

This was answered by an excited individ usl, who said Mr. Kleinschmidt was the man who signed the ordinance while he was mayor delivering the city soul and body to the Woolston Water Works corporation, contrary to the wishes of two-thirds of the taxpayers of the city.

Before the gentleman had finished his tirade the chairman ordered another ballot, which was taken, and as there was no change in the result, a motion to adjourn was carried unanimously. The battle will be fought over again to-night.

OFFENDERS AGAINST THE LAW Roundup of a Day's Doings Among Petus

City Marshal Hard received a telegram from Great Falls yesterday instructing him to detain Miss Jennie Oakly, who was on board the Montana Central train. The marshal was on hand and escorted the young woman to the city and to jail. Just what she was wanted for was not known. At the jail she said all she did was to leave town forgetting to pay her rent, which was overdue. "They might not have arrested me for that," she said, "as I left all my furniture in the house, which worth more than a year's furniture in the house, which was worth more than a year's rent." The woman is rather young, and the fact that she travels under an alias or aliases leads the authorities to regard her with suspicion. Her other name is E. Lovejoy, which she signed to a telegram informing a friend at Great Falls that she was in trouble, asking him to get her out of the scrape and expressing a desire to settle her difficulty. A later telegram from Sheriff Dunning says she is wanted for larceny and she will be taken back to-day.

C. F. Goddard, a hackman, was taken before Judge Sanders yesterday morning to answer to the charge of soliciting. This was the first case of the kind Judge Sanders has had before him, and as he, like many others, does not consider it a very grievous offense for a man to solicit trade, let the prisoner off with a $5 fine. It seems that Goddard, while at one of the railway depots, called out to some new arrival to step in his carriage. There is an ordinance prohibiting this, and a vigilant policeman, who is well up on city ordinances, embraced the opportunity to enrich the city exchequer.

Frank Beal, the telegraph operator, had a hearing before Justice Woodman, who has taken the case under advisement and will give his decision to day.

WORK RESUMED.

The Strike at the East Helena Smelter Ending by the Men Resuming Work.

All the Men Complain of is Too Many Hours to Work Among the Lead Fumes.

The Placer Diggings Near Townsend Very Rich But Containing Plenty

The trouble at the Helena smelter is at an end and yesterday work was resumed in full force. Some of the strikers were taken back, but the hands are mostly new ones. Three stacks are smoking and a fourth furnace is being erected upon which work is being rapidly pushed.

One of the smelter men, in conversation with an INDEPENDENT reporter a few days ago, said it was not an advance in wages the furnacemen requested so much as shorter hours. They complain that twelve hours in front of a lead furnace is more than the ordinary able-bodied man can endure, and some of the hardiest have already succumbed to the lead fumes. "One man who worked steadily twenty-two days last month," he said, "is now leaded and lying in the hospital. Twelve hours at that class of work is too much. It is not the manual labor but being in the vicinity of the furnace we complain of, and hope that in the near future the company will be able to make eight hours a day's work."

The smelter grounds are filled with ore, the shut-down for a few days having accu-mulated a great deal. In one day last week seventeen cars were received. The week seventeen cars were received. The Helena company says it was a mistake in announcing the smelter was short of iron ore for fluxing. There is an abundant supply of ore on hand and a very large visible supply. From the Radersburg iron mines, which have recently been stimulated into increased production, 200 tons are shipped daily.

Helena is destined to be the ore market for the entire northwest and particularly for points west of here. The great silver-lead mines of Idaho are appreciating this fact, and the result is that nearly the entire yield of concentrates is being shipped to this point. Thus a double freight is saved, as by having the ores treated at Helena they are on the direct route to the eastern markets, whereas if shipped to smelters further west than the mines, an additional haul would be required to transport the builton to the east.

Smelting is undoubtedly the cheapest method of reducing ores, particularly those which are base. Many miners have leads which they imagine contain only milling ore, but if they should try the smelters they would soon realize their error and also find their returns larger, as the percentage of the precious metals lost through smelting is leas than in any other method of ore reduction.

There is room for another smelter here doubly as large as that at East Helena, it is claimed.

John R. Marks, of Townsend, arrived in the city yesterday and said the new placer diggings discovered, while not very rich, contains good quantities of fine gold. Many claims have been staked off, but the ground will not be worked to advantage until water is procured. There is no water for sluicing within several miles up to John Murray's ditch from Beaver creek. The locators of the new ground are talking of organizing a company to build a ditch. At present the only method of mining the dirt is to fill a bag, carry it to Townsend, about a mile distant, and pan it out. Good wages are being realized in this manner. Mr. Marks says the little excitement occasioned by the discovery has subsided.

colleges of that name throughout the United States. A soliciting committee was appointed to report at the next annual conference, and Helena was decided upon as a suitable location for the college. Offers of ground were made at various suburbs of the city, the principle places being in the Townsite addition southest of the city, the Bradford addition on the west side, and an offer of forty acres in the flat, six miles north of Helena. The first named locations were viewed yesterday and to-day the directors in a body will view the location north of town. The university, which will cost about $20,000 at the outset, will soon be in course of construction.

Arrested for Larceny. Joseph Bryan and Joseph Berlase were arrested yesterday by Detective Walters explain the matter more fully: and Officer Crookham and lodged in the city jail. A complaint was filed against them in Justice Fleischer's court and warrants issued which resulted in their apprerants issued which resulted in their apprehension. William Brennan, who lives in Upper Ten Mile, preferred the charge. He claims that they purloined a lot of mining machinery from him and described the stolen pleces. The men were found at Stedman's foundry, where they were attempting to dispose of property which corresponds with that alleged to have been stolen.

The following mineral patents were yesterday received at the Helena land office:

No. 1424, to Mount Helena Tunnel and Mining company for the Butler lode; No. 1427, to F. VanZandt and S. A. Fleming for the Honori lode; No. 1428, to F. VanZandt and S. A. Fleming for the Sir John lode.

Officers Commissioned. Gov. Leslie yesterday issued commisions to the following territorial officers, who filed bonds in accordance with the law: W. G. Preuitt, to be treasurer; Jas. Sullivan, to be auditor; John B, Clayberg. to be attorney general; and A. C. Logan, Contracts Awarded. A special meeting of the city council was held last evening with Mayor Fuller, Aldermen Loeb, Harrison, Washburn, Simonds, Howey, Adkinson, Worth, Lissner. Clewell, Donnelly, Morris, Featherly and Kirkendall present.

It being a special meeting, principally to open bids for fire alarm systems, the regular order was dispensed with. The Richmond Interstate Non-interfering Fire and Police Alarm put in two bids. The first one read is for an ordinary arrangement for $3,590. The second was for the noninterfering telegraph system for $4,345 and extra charge for the police alarm. To be paid for as follows: One thousand dollars cash and city warrants payable in one, two, three, four and five years, with 7 per ent. annual interest. The bid for the Gamewell Telegraph Nonterfering system was $4,100, police slarm interfering system was $4,100, police alarm to come extra, and terms for payment upon which the city may agree. The Gamewell bid provides for gongs and indicators at the waterworks and central station and a 2.500-pound bell in the tower.

After being read Alderman Harrison moved that the bids be referred to a special committee of five. Worth amended to refer them to the former committee which had fire alarm business in hand. The amendment carried and Harrison was knocked out, when he moved that the vote be reconsidered giving as his reason that reconsidered, giving as his reason that his original motion was not understood.
Alderman Kirkendall was probably the only one who didn't understand and the motion to rescind prevailed.
Harrison again tried to have this precious matter referred to a special committee and made a motion to that effect, and consented to a suggestion from a gentleman in the rear that the committee be composed of one alderman from each ward. Worth again amended Harrison's motion by adding that the matter be referred to the same committee. He said this committee was thoroughly familiar with the fire alarm subject, and ly familiar with the fire alarm subject, and as he was a member of the committee, didn't feel disposed to vote for a motion that might place him off.

On a vote Harrison was again knocked out and Worth's amendment prevailed.

Bids for grading Benton avenue were next opened and read. The part of the avenue to be graded is between Clark and Main streets. This is the work which Bryan contracted to do, but suddenly left town. The bids as read are as follows, the bid designating'so many cents per yard: the bid designating so many cents per yard

forris & Hines T. B. Kirkendall E. Kluge wohy & Noonan

The bids were referred to the street and alley committee with instructions to report at the next meeting. There was a prevalent disposition among the aldermen to get out and do some wire pulling, and the council adjourned until next Friday evening.
